As a reminder, please make sure your ruleset is set to "Spirits: OFF".
If Spirits is enabled, hitlag/shieldlag higher than 16 frames will be shortened, even if you are not wearing any spirits.

You may worry but normal calculation is used in Training Mode (was fixed in 3.0.0).

This marks the complete removal of Yoshi's Story and Lnova from use in Australia with the standardisation toward character first before every game and a 7 minute timer.

f the AL ruleset w/ characters before-stages clause becomes standard I think I'm gonna jump off a bridge I legit hate everythng so much right now cali me emotional from other shit that happened today but Jesus christ can please catch a goddamn break in smash after 2020 PLEASE dont expect me to be any less angry over this stuff though because i don't sit in my fucking house hating smash for FIFTEEN+ MONTHS only for moveset counterpicking to get nerfed

From my perspective (someone who only runs one moveset lol) this ruleset would be a straight upgrade: no YS, and I know for sure what character my opponent's using prior to picking stage.

I can definitely understand how this would be bad for multi-moveset Brawlers tho

Hmmm

I guess, with Yoshis gone and with characters picked before stages, can an opponent force you to go to a bad stage with this ruleset as Brawler? I can't see any stages being truly awful for SAK/HK... I don't think Thrupper can be forced to FD/Town either right?

Kirby deletes/cheeses Brawler (a though shotput may help with that)

Today I learned that Bury is a comeback mechanic
LMFAOOOOOOOOOOO

Technical Information

Super Smash Bros. Ultimate

How to use the new underdog advantage mechanic

- In the opponent's new advantage state, the damage is reduced to 1/2 of the original damage.
- It is a random 50% chance to be used, and in the main menu, the player with a thick advantage will have a 100% chance to use it while players in disadvantage get a 50% chance to use it.

Couple probably issues tho:

a) Thrupper comes out and moves so fast/is so small that it may well just not hit them

b) Even if it does hit them it may very well not kill due to being grounded thrupper

Went to my first offline tourney tonight in more than a year and a half.
Went 0-2 but had a lot of fun and got to meet a bunch of cool people.

What I learned:

- 1) ESK, HoA, and X22X recovery work just fine offline.
- 2) Inkling ink is a menace
- 3) STOP. RUNNING. AT. PEOPLE. lol

It simply requires the user to not mash

youtu.be/Z8yqk I guess
This right at the start stood out to me
Ledge trap > short bar > dash string > knowing that he could boomerang and pre-emptively avoid ng it and then continuing the string

That kind of mu knowledge and play around his projectiles was really cool

Went 1-2 for the second time

Things that went well:

Ledgetrapping with HK. I practiced that and it paid off even in the sets I lost; feels really good to reactively take stocks

Things that went poorly: being patient against people who outrange me. I'm seeing a pattern lol

I can take multiple stocks in a single game with it and they just gotta hold that.

Most annoying part of the Mii Brawler Head-On Assault buff is that my partially complete spreadsheet of the minimum HoA kill % for every character on every part of every legal stage is now completely and thoroughly inaccurate.

#SSBU

Grounded HoA on character below this platform brings character above the platform and connects landing hit
Grounded HoA on character below this platform brings Brawler above the platform but not the opponent's character
Grounded HoA on character below this platform does not connect with the platform as it Seedillio's Charizard Only works when Charizard is being away from Brawler when HoA is initiated otherwise Charizard isn't hit at all

Percentage lowest percent (approx) before hit at which it will kill (and D state moves off no rage) can be dependent on direction sent may be easier later dependent on Impact too
Brawler ratings: some minor tweaks to HoA kill % on Kibiki make Kibiki's Performance 34%

Went 1-2 at tonight's loca

Takeaways:

I'm playing patient but I need to play even more patient

I don't yet have the cutthroat "you're down a stock so I'm not approaching you" mentality that I need against characters with greater speed and range

Also, gotta practice spotdodge

On a positive note, got to play against @Mastamario18's Kazuya for like an hour and a half in friendlies

Really good mu xp

EWGF has an ungodly amount of hitstun LOL

and as far as I can tell, jump is absolutely required over airdodge in that mu

Also even if they can AD, it puts them in a really bad spot that you can go low/punish. The real counterplay here, as with dthrow EWGF onstage, is DI in on the EWGF. Some places I can still nail off it, but it's harder, and I have to be closer to the ledge to send you offstage!

Depends on jump, character, and %. At 0, dthrow > EWGF is always true, but against e.g. Mario jump lets him escape. If you do the second clip tho (fair > grab > EWGF), the increased damage from fair means if done correctly you can't jump out (1/2)

WhyDo (OLED model) @WDBTHtGP · 14m

Oh no, DI in will get you hit with CHARGED upsmash at mid-high % on a read. It's just an important mixup at low % because it makes sweetspot air harder to get, so Kazuya can't just do free dthrow EWGF air loops and stuff

Things to work on: Do not under any circumstances let Bowser have a small stage. As far as I'm concerned, this applies for every heavy from now on.

BETTER WAY OF PHRASING THINGS

Winning neutral more often is outplaying your opponent. That's such a baby mindset lmfao. Neutral is such a small and sometimes unimportant part of the game

Yume @yume_lucario

SIDE NOTE people that vote A almost always seem to be the same group of people that think neutral interactions are the largest indicator of skill or that neutral is the most important part of the game or something I'd agree that winning neutral more or even at all is not the same as outplaying your opponent; some characters have moves that play neutral for them.

Ultimately, whether you win neutral or not doesn't matter, only whether your opponent loses 3 stocks before you do.

I wouldn't go so far as to say that neutral is small or unimportant across the board though. I think it depends on the exact mu; characters with similar tools may spend much more time in neutral against each other than characters having an asymmetric mu.

but the charge animation also puts a huge

Min Min should be banned - don't care if she's the best or worst character. She's just not even remotely fun to fight as or against and the fact that we just have to deal with her now until the game dies sucks.

Imo there's not much point to discussing bans until the final char/patches get released. Minmin could still get nerfed into the ground and some other char become obnoxious not sure whether HK to go deeper offstage or TL to make juggling more ethical is better for fighting minmin. I'm leaning HK but I don't know how effective of a strategy buffering both of her arms the second she's knocked offstage is, which is what most minmin players I see do

Mac is fox/sonic but with armor and less dangerous aerals

Shield is your friend.

Don't try to punish most moves on shield, instead bait his attacks and whiff punish

Get him offstage by w/e means necessary and then ledgetrap him into oblivion.

Be patient.

The one actually useful thing for tonight: dtilt can z-axis chest-high attacks, like horizontal tilts or small projectiles (arrows, hadouken, uncharged charge shot, etc)

Approaching with dtilt can not only start combos but also avoid many retaliatory moves

Baffling 2GG/Mega Smash Mondays structure decisions.
For whatever reason, 2GGaming doesn't have the typical matchup structure for winners where 1st seed fights 8th, 2nd vs 7th, 3rd vs 6th, and so on. Instead we have this baffling structure where 1st seed fights 2nd in Semis

I just realized that Nintendo made my down-b stronger than Bowser's.

Brawler's version of Bowser Bomb kills earlier than Bowser Bomb.

...My neutral/up-b's are already better than their origins time to sleep before I find out that my side b is actually better than Paisy's

He really doesn't have the same traits as Luigi at all though. Brawler's optimized damage output doesn't match Luigi's optimized damage output,

This is a very, VERY biased list; view at your own discretion LOL

Fun fact of the day! Did you know that of all the many costumes to appear in the Super Smash Bros. series over the years, as of September 9, 2021, there's still only been one where using it revokes your rights to healthcare and clean water? Fascinating!

Fun fact of the day! Did you know in Fire Emblem, Ike is fast and has projectiles, but these traits were removed in Super Smash Bros. as director Sakurai felt a fast projectile swordsman would be too strong? He then went and added Cloud in the very next fucking game. Fascinating!

0-2 at Dreamlab, losing to Rewind's Chroy and Lonk's Krool/Link.

2-2 in rez bracket, losing to Phresh's Wolf and Rainz's Roy

Of note:

Doing better at adaptation, Rewind and Phresh game 2s were very close Hit nair fsmash to delete DDD at like 60% (why does brawler have that);

It usually takes me about three games to adapt to someone, and I suspect I can cut that down a lot if I don't also have to adjust my timing every single time

How do you guys deal with being put in disadvantage? Every time I get hit I have the urge to air dodge, spot dodge, or shield. Being trigger happy is making me lose way more percent and even stocks.

Fun fact of the day! Did you know that Super Smash Bros. creator Masahiro Sakurai is a big fan of fighting games, which is why he enjoys adding so many different fighting game characters to Super Smash Bros.? 📷

This is not always a good thing.

Fascinating! 😊

lots of great xp vs

a so that was 1-2 by DQ so zero satisfaction

takeaways.

- 1) I have and (should use a lot of) 7 minutes
- 2) HoA obliterates Hero's recovery
- 3) HoA and ESK should be very VERY infrequently used vs seph
- 4) I need to actively fish for kill confirms
- 5) GRAB. Snake. ONLY EVER. GRAB

Have fighting games always allowed DLC to be tournament legal, or is that specifically a Smash thing? I know historically pay-to-win options have been frowned upon in a lot of competitive scenes, but fighting games are slightly different (1/2)

Normally a pay-to-win option is available only to the purchaser, and that still holds true for online smash; however, for offline tournaments, any dlc chars are available to both players.

Of course, there's still the issue of not being able to practice said dlc without buying them

Second-worst: Onslaught. A killing version of raptor boost, but completely unsafe on shield, slow, and sends into special fall even on hit.

Worst: Counter Throw. Very strong fast counter but is a grab with Brawler's grab range (so about 0), does not trigger on projectiles.

Brawler upsmash is bad.
It doesn't reliably beat disjoints, cover crossups or spaced aerials, or kill mid-weights below 110-120%.

It's Fox upsmash on a char with top 26 run speed instead of top 6.

99% of the time HK is just better.

HMM #2:

A) Nair->dtilt->fair->dash attack is the most basic of brawler BnBs.

B) I have, to date, participated in over 19,000 matches.

C) IIRC, I have done that combo exactly once against a real person.

D) It was this year.

E) I don't plan to use it again, and I'm not sorry.

TIL that Yoshi's Egg Lay is actually probably optimal for him to cancel tumble with (fewer total frames than all of his aerials when whiffed; if it's not whiffed, well someone's trapped inside an egg now LOL)

Fun fact of the day! Did you know Lucario heavily references Dragon Ball in Super Smash Bros., even using Goku's voice actor? Despite pandering to such a colossal fandom (to say nothing of the furies), he still has literally zero players, which is almost impressive. Fascinating!

Why are you as a Mii player bad at navigating the menu

1 1 4

FireThePyro SOON Port Priority 6 @FireThePyro · 4m

That being said one of the most archaic things about Ultimate menus is that if you are TOO fast on certain screens in Mii Fighter creation the game will register your input and play the animation as if you selected said option but NOT actually select/go to whatever you picked

Was thinking about DLC not being inherently banned from competitive Smash, and made this:
A pay-to-win tier list

Top tier is approximately ordered from most to least dead franchise, and then ordered within franchises

Bottom tier is loosely ordered

Replying to @TimDanklin @W TwerkTrainer

That would be HoA's richochet knockback: when it just clips an opponent but can't quite drag them all the way down for the landing hitbox, so they instead just take the spike and get vertically bounced off of the nearest platform or ground
Happens a lot when trading with aerials

Plus, brawlers never ever use it outside of combos, so it's probably actually one of the least well-known moves in our arsenal, even against people who have a lot of mu xp

All of our other aerals are single hit; fair isn't byleth nair, but it is our only multihit aerial

That's a hangup. I can understand, town could move to starter if we wanna fix that but I've always thought of it on the more polarizing end of stages

Tbh issue is there aren't really any neutral/larger stages

PS2 is relatively neutral
But T&C/FD/Lylat/Kalos aren't

And I personally hate small stages because I can't land against zoners/ds points

Optimal SDI to escape ,ab trans?

RVNT | RockMan @RockManSSBL · 21m

It depends a lot on the character tbh but one thing I've learned is that at least for fast fallers, any SDI vs wood or stone tools does pretty much nothing. Aside from that you always generally want to SDI out because SDI In can be reacted to and combos will continue

Objectively they are medium size stages, yes

The only small stages that would ever be considered "ega" nowadays are:

Yoshi's

KIND OF Lyat (FD Size but people usually stay away from the sants)

Smashville

SBF, BF, FD, and Hollow Bastion are all the same size

Smashville is small and can be rather unfun to deal with disjoints on; not as bad as bf/sbf

Why do people complain so much about stages 🤔 Honestly for all I care stage selection could be mega random and I would be super down, it would add another layer of adaptation

AhCé @vamosAhce
My favorite stage list arguments

Was actually something I was thinking about recently lol

AFAIK, clips are split into

1) true combos

2) strings

category one is boring after it happens once cause true

category two is "lol they bad" cause in order for it to happen the opponent has to pick an incorrect option

Thought about what I could have done better all the way home from going 0-2

1) turn my brain on

I had no gameplan against either Wolf or Sora

None

I think I threw out 20 BDKs as kill options

I did no combos

I didn't even attempt a single confirm in both friendlies and bracket

Questions that I will never know the answers to:

Why does wolf bair kill below 90?

Why does wolf bair do 15%?

Why does wolf bair come out frame 13

.....

And, as is only right for a 44-frame move autocancel frame 19?

momentum* nair into buffered HoA

AKA you need to both hold forward that moves brawler close enough that HoA is true

So I'm editing a quick montage showcasing every spoke in the game, and there's one character that got spiked on more than any other character

First person to guess gets a shout out in the vid.

My insurance isn't covering the cost of my vehicle. I naively assumed it was already in my policy but because I obtained my insurance before owning a vehicle I never added personal car coverage. That vehicle was my pride and joy and I've lost it completely. It's a catastrophe

Typically when people finish their strings and don't wanna keep swinging at someone they just go to a "good" position, if you finish with something that launches up that's usually beow them, offstage that's usually to ledge, sideways but still onstage that's usually burst range

This is assuming some very broad/vague scenarios though, there are definitely going to be times where some characters/players incentivize you to push forward or take a different part of the stage

Kinda depends on a lot of factors - if you think someone is gonna mash it might be better to just keep trying to punch them provided you believe you can in time

if you play your cards right as brawler you can just keep mashing on people as long as you follow their movement

1 1 1

FireThePyro ^{soon} Domino Effect 18 @FireThePyro · 11m

It mostly comes down to having a strong idea of what you could do, what you can do, and what you should do, usually guided by risk/reward and gamesense

Dashdancing back and forth has very little benefit and negative benefit when you're getting hit for it every time BUT

1 1 1

FireThePyro ^{soon} Domino Effect 18 @FireThePyro · 9m

If you're noticing the opponent keeps going for the punish on your dashdance you can use that to your advantage, anywhere from a dash attack (probably what I would do if my opponent started to show signs of committing to something) to Hellkick (if they fuck up colossally)

1 1+

FireThePyro ^{soon} Domino Effect 18 @FireThePyro · 8m

Lots of examples like this, just watch back your play and ask yourself if what you just did/got hit for made any objective sense given the context and you should have a better idea of what's getting you hit/killed

Hello.

There is no class tomorrow. I've got some things to take care of regarding this and my other class and my full time job. I have received countless emails about zeroes on assignments either through errors I've made, you've made, or simply people not realizing or knowing they were supposed to turn it in and then realizing in panic they received a zero on it for (surprise) not turning it in. It seems that giving you a free assignment so long as you turn SOMETHING in created far more chaos than good will. Apologies. That's on me. And you. But also me. But also you.

Congratulate yourselves. You've overloaded me.

Submit it. I've extended the deadline until tomorrow before Midnight.

If you do NOT turn it in before then, I'm sorry. It's a zero. No excuses at this point and frankly, I regret ever trying to make this assignment easier because it's created more problems at this point.

I will look at these. Do not do something stupid like type "b" or "I did it". I will become enraged and bitch about you for exactly 15 seconds to anyone within my proximity who will listen. I will not hold back.

After I receive these, I will give you full credit (pending the above prerequisites). I will then promptly print 100 copies of the assignment out, put them in a pile, light that pile on fire and dance around the rubble as it burns. I will then put my hand on the smoldering embers so that I may feel again. Feel what, you might ask? Anything. Literally anything.

I will then sleep like a baby, having put this nightmare behind me.

or regression analysis (this is literally week 1 of the course)

- We have, $\mathbf{x}_i = (x_{i1}, \dots, x_{ip})^T \in \mathbb{R}^p$ and $Y_i \in \mathbb{R}$, and data set

$$\mathcal{D} = \{(\mathbf{x}_1, Y_1), (\mathbf{x}_2, Y_2), \dots, (\mathbf{x}_n, Y_n)\}$$

- We assume that the response variable Y_i is related to the explanatory vector $\mathbf{x}_i$ through a function f via the model,

$$Y_i = f(\mathbf{x}_i) + \epsilon_i, \quad i = 1, \dots, n \quad (1)$$

- The explanatory vectors $\mathbf{x}_i$ are fixed (non-random)
- The regression function $f: \mathbb{R}^p \rightarrow \mathbb{R}$ is unknown
- The error terms ϵ_i are iid Gaussian, i.e. $\epsilon_i \stackrel{\text{iid}}{\sim} N(0, \sigma^2)$
- Goal We seek to estimate the function f using the data in $\mathcal{D}$

1 1+

FireThePyro ^{soon} Domino Effect 18 @FireThePyro · 2h

ALSO important to recognize that the endgoal of fighting a cornered opponent isn't to kill them but to just keep them there for as long as possible would rather repeatedly win a ledgetrap for 12% three times than win neutral for 20% three times

1 1 1

FireThePyro ^{soon} Domino Effect 18 @FireThePyro · 2h

Because the risk of losing neutral is much worse than the risk of losing stage control 9 times out of 10 plus it's harder to win neutral since your opponent isn't as strained for options

biggest issue I have with this is

a) i do a bad job of fastfalling so i need to not suck LOL

b) people sit under plats in the corner all the time and it's hell to actually get through the plat and hit them without eating their oos option of choice

sn't the benefit of brawler that you can change ur moveset, so just use thrupper for yoshi's and cheese people. Also you won't have to waste a ban on yoshi's.

yeah

but I specifically only play the one moveset (cause tbh i deeply don't care about the other moves at all)

*technically Yoshis is also really good for helickick brawler, i just hate triplats cause dealing with disjoints on them

Everything is clear to let attendees back in. I'm sorry this happened but we will replay the game for competitors from that current match. We have the footage and I will make sure you never show your face again to any event once the investigation is complete with security

Great thing about brawler is that it's very clear when I played well

Bad thing about brawler is that I have literally zero margin of error

If I whiff, I die

If I mispace, I die

Press the wrong button

Hesitate to press a button

Mess up even slightly offstage

and I die

I don't have moves with iframes

Or comeback mechanics

Or safe kill moves

Or safe projectiles

Or easy kill throws

Or free disjoints

Or generous confirms

I know I'm improving

I know I can deal with all the above

but holy HELL every character in the game outranging me is pain LOL

ok now that I think about it I'm fairly certain half of my confusion about I feel like I'm getting worse is my controller deciding that nair jab should actually be nair turnaround utilt

don't get me started on the freaking down-bs instead of side bs

Banning steve cause he's a little bit broken is dumb.

Banning all of the dlc on principle because, as dlc, they are automatically more broken than the base roster to make them more appealing so that people shell out for them... 🤔 🤔 🤔

His point is that tweek played the MU horribly because he didn't know the MU well and let him get diamond for free against a character that gets a heavy advantage from that. He's just showing this one clip as an example that he played the MU bad overall

irc this was the one time in the entire game tweek just let ddog camp for that long

Quite possibly because he's under a plat, has a 3 high wall, and thus can almost certainly react to any attempt to approach with a tit or cart...

And if you don't want to die, free stat buff

1 1

sky @skylwer · 47m

Sure but that's literally what steve wants. He wants to stay away from you. Him getting diamond cost him the stock, which gave Steve the lead which in turn made him lose that game, which kept happening and made him lose both sets

1 1 1

coldForce (currently working on Christmas montage) @CFor3000 · 27m

Which sounds like you would agree that approaching ddog for 11 seconds d lose tweek the entire game

mean, I don't think steve warrants a ban

But name one other character in ult where not approaching them for 11 seconds at the start of the game ensures your automatic loss

sky @skylwer · 25m

No that doesn't make the automatic loss. He just played it bad overall. But giving him diamond for free just amplified each mistake he made. It's like if you see Joker rebels guarding and hit him intentionally to give him Arsene

coldForce (currently working on Christmas montage) @CFor3000 · 20m

More like if you saw Jokers doing nothing while having a giant "approach me and die at 0" zone around them

And then got they permanent arsene

Steve is the only character I can think of who could be in advantage state with a 2 stock deficit on the other side of the stage.

1 1

sky @skylwer · 18m

But it's not permanent. It breaks from using it. Also I'm saying Tweek literally gave him a buff. That's his mistake. He's a fantastic player but he played that horribly. That's all there is to it

1 1

coldForce (currently working on Christmas montage) @CFor3000

Follow

Replying to @skylwer @kevinkaywho

Compared to Arsene, diamond is a permanent buff

You can't wait out diamond; if you try, steve starts to stack diamonds/redstone/gold

I agree that it was a mistake to let ddog mine

But the fact that not approaching someone camping IN NEUTRAL is such a bad mistake is messed up but compared runspeeds of several characters visually, with and without probably not foxtrotting optimal y but def interesting

Not trying to say Byleth's fast, just that Leo is using the foxtrot to make them move faster

Frame by frame I think the foxtrot is giving them little bursts of distance compared to the normal run, but then the run catches back up when Byleth starts their next dash

So Byleth foxtrot might just give burst distance, unlike Incin

No, they break even or even have run outstrip due to how dashes have startup acceleration and midpoint deceleration back down to run speed. It's not actually faster, just distributed differently. Afaik.

The problem with relying solely on these values is it misses the deceleration and acceleration mechanics where 1.8 is only a TOP speed and becomes 1.43 partway through instead

Yeah, I get that; I don't see any stats at all of deceleration on UFD tho so I don't know how to calculate which one is optimal

All I can look at is the frame-by-frame; and the foxtrot is at the least very definitely not losing to the run there

I have realized why I don't like Sora

He plays like he's incompetent

WHICH IS NOT HIS PLAYERS FAULT

Sora, the actual character, just inherently plays like a 6 year old with a foam sword

Today feels like a great day for a tourney. Should I participate in a $500 prize pool WiFi tourney, or an offline local about 90 minutes away? Kinda unsure which I should go to.

Hard Question:

Would you agree to a true lockdown for 2 weeks to end this pandemic?

No, because it wouldn't work. As soon as we emerged, it would be there waiting. And there is no such thing as a true lockdown, you still need hospitals, food service, delivery of goods, which means people circulating. It's a fantasy and it's time we let go of it.

JustMe @Iheart_this · Jan 3
To me, it's only a fantasy because some people would not stay home. If we are only talking a couple of weeks to a month, food could be delivered before hand so the only true needs to have emergency services available.

2 weeks will not likely end the pandemic, a 5-6 weeks break likely will. Having said that, had all eligible candidates have vaccinated by now, the likelihood of continuing pandemic would have been much lower.

Fair enough

HK and bdk kill even crossstage tho so they're good for catching people above and too far away and hoa literally just murders clumps of characters, esp if they actually hit you high

Imo this is why SoCal sucks the players don't show up. Not even 100 people signed up for smash. They've been advertising for months now. But back when 2gg was around weekly 200+ or capped. Go sign up if you can or we likely won't have other majors here besides BTS probably

Things I like this I understand, what I'm wondering is where all the 200+ people who would regularly show up weekly to MSM when Covid still existed are at and why they aren't showing up to Fof

As someone who subscribed to 2gg specifically to be able to prereg for MSM:

MSM was:

20 minutes away

I could get there after work

Had country-wide talent regularly

$15 entry

I had just gotten fully vaccinated and covid cases were far lower and dropping

Something else to consider is that MSM was held during summer

So most of the students that have HW and classes right now would have been free then and could attend

There's a big difference between asking most of LA to drive 30 minutes and pay $15 to go 0-2 or 1-2, and asking the same people to drive 90 minutes and pay 70 dollars... to still go 0-2 or 1-2

also if you saying its location of being in OC is beneficial (can bring in OC, 626, LA which is good) Id still say that any event around OC can still do meet that requirement, even some 626 areas can bring in those regions including E

Mostly just saying that this is where most people live in SoCal so having a weekly that was centralized, easy to access, and inexpensive was INSANELY valuable

Like, there's gonna be a big diff between making IE drive 90 minutes and making LA drive 90. In terms of turnout

2 1.5K 1.5K

CS | Jerry @chocolate54sh1 · 19m

that centralized location is good, I can't fully argue that but I do stay other factors can offset. also you'd be surprised at how many players thing $15 is expensive, and that's with the options for having discounts. and to add on to that didn't 2gg have some thing where you had to sub to their channel to register, or was that just really registration?

1 1.5K 1.5K

CS | Jerry @chocolate54sh1 · 19m

1 1.5K 1.5K

coldForce @CFForce3000 · 17m

that was just early reg

which I 100% did because that's something else MSM had country-wide talent lol

it had fatality, MKLeo, Chag, Spargo, and kinds of top players coming through every other week

like, major level players at a $15 dollar, centralized weekly is priceless

2 1.5K 1.5K

coldForce @CFForce3000 · 15m

like, that's the thing

MSM was actually the closest, cheapest, most stacked, weekly for me so I had literally no reason to ever not show up unless I legit had work or something else in the way

1 1.5K 1.5K

CS | Jerry @chocolate54sh1 · 11m

that's true but I'm not really arguing so much that brand/ legacy of 2gg, that can't easily be recreated, I'd say a lot of certain things that people state can be but stuff like majors. tho you did highlight that in a good way

1 1.5K 1.5K

coldForce @CFForce3000 · 9m

I mean, ngl, if another weekly of any size popped up 30 minutes from me, I'd be there yesterday LOL. (assuming covid cases aren't through the roof)

location is honestly probably one of if not the biggest considerations for me cause I usually have to wake up early on the day after

1 1.5K 1.5K

coldForce @CFForce3000 · 8m

so the closer a location is, the later I can stay, the more friends I can get, the more people I can hang out with

If this move went through shields, or killed midair, or didn't require rage to kill at useful percents, then it might be worthwhile

But as it stands, you need a char that can get rage safely, and also survive whiffing it
Heavies/ lucario can get rage, but no one can survive -54

He makes me more tilted than Steve

I'd be impressed, but given that said tilting takes slightly less skill to pull off than Sora's entire gameplan...

Optimal Sora combos go to the point where he can kill you off any stray hit and uhh those are a lot harder online. Also as someone who plays against Sora a lot, he's easier to deal with online IMO

so if i don't

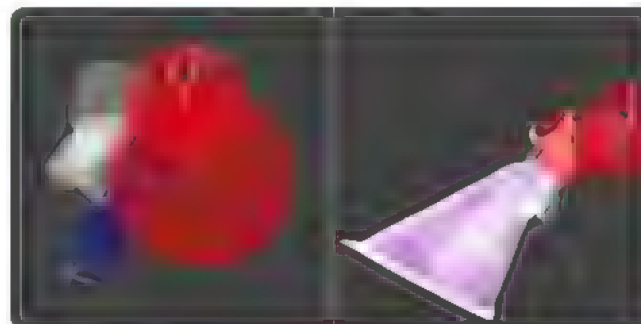

- a) make the sora mispace
- b) react in time
- c) don't get my input eaten by delay

I don't play elite that often. LOL haven't had many other options recently tho so I've gotten to see the really nasty side of every character aka I would prefer to never play sora again but if I have to,

I'd at least like my own options to FUNCTION

do you know how incredibly fun it is to play online as a character with negative disjoint, moves that kill you when you whiff, and mediocre movespeed?

Sora definitely isn't unpublishable online. Side b's pretty laggy if you just shield. If Sora does far and near combos on your shield parrying it is like parrying. ncin neutral b. Spel s are broken but they're the same offline and online side b would be laggy if he had to do it a fixed amount of times every time but he doesn't so I have to play a fun reacting guessing game of "d d they keep going" and then try to punish with my minimum 13 frames of online input delay did you just tell me to parry on wifi LO.

i don't think i did the last test right and ended up with 12 frames of input delay offline in training mode and a FAT 18-22 frames of input delay online even against very non-laggy opponents

definitely gonna try to get consistency

On the assumption that pro controller typically has 6-7 frames of input delay, and that therefore the offline "12" frames of input delay was actually 6 frames + 6 frames of offset from OBS/capture card:

Normal person I played 12-13 frames of input delay (minimum(?) for online)

Slightly laggy person 16 frames of input delay

Which is frankly crazy tbh

Like afak the matchmaking system matched me with people near me

I'm kinda scared to test against people from out of state

Everyone ALWAYS asks about what my Mii set is and why I use Burning Drop Kick

Here are my explanations

I just realized I never actually subbed on YouTube until now which is why I never got your videos on my feed, whoops.

FireThePyro @FireThePyro · 27m

It's funny how much some people promote BDK while I don't talk about how much free damage I get off people getting scared of landing aerials or instinctually shielding after getting one of their very spaced moves blocked from ten feet away and suplexing in both scenarios

FireThePyro @FireThePyro · 24m

Don't get me wrong though I'm seeing more value in BDK but the way I play makes Suplex way more relevant and has carried my ass through multiple sets

Personally suplex's dmg was never particularly convincing due a) brawler kills very early and b) brawler does absurd dmg without suplex anyway

Suplex's armor and ability to ignore shields are its main advantages imo when doing comparison to bdk's recovery/range/killpotential

Let's say, hypothetically, your main gets Arsene. With this, they get the obvious buffs. Bigger hit boxes, higher kill power, etc. But, an overlooked thing about Arsene is how it improves Joker's specials. So, in what way would your main's specials be improved if they had Arsene?

unironically think Aegis Pika is a matchup I lost at character select. it's too hard to hit Pika in neutral. He boxes better and it's near impossible to mix up Aegis recovery

4. Steve players post clips that DONT end in b ock reverse bair, up tilt up tilt up tilt up smash, or minecart offstage and call it cool chal enge

Eric the Sticccy one @sticccryssbu 57m
5. Low tier on Top tier via ence or vice versa doesn't make your clip any better

6. Posting clips on combo food characters is only ok when you do something particularly extraordinary. I promise your character's "coolest combo" becomes far less interesting on big boy, te-hurtbox, designed-to-eat combos DK

I love bodyblocking Either i don't grab the heavy because i literally cannot reach through their shield

And then i die

Or i run through the heavy and whiff because even though they're grounded they're still in endlag and therefore bodyblocking is turned off

And then i die

For reference, since i didn't fill out the poll:

I estimate I've KO'd with 6,500+ raw ESKs so far in my SSBU career, with 840 hrs on Brawler

the next closest respondent had about half that

The most notable thing about #miiBrawler's stats is that I'm now quite sure no one plays this character with ESK nor has any idea of what they're doing with it like, the maximum total ESK's landed between all 31 players in the past 3 years is 330.

I have over 6,500.

For the general playerbase, I think
Hatchet Man > Aymr > Falcon Punch > Warlock Punch

I'm now absolutely sure that Exploding Side Kick is literally in a different tier of move watching people steadily find out that "just do this one easy counterplay/they're really not that bad" chars are not in fact that easy to counterplay when someone competent plays them is really funny the unfunny part is that all those chars aren't fun to fight...

I think pika/roy/mythra are in a weird halfway zone
can't just mash on them because they will commit capital offenses

but brawler does need to have buttons out there to contest them or he gets massacred

might be the same for link/ridley

"respectful neutral" lol

A decent chunk of the characters in grey are also some of what i consider to be the harder matchups so the fact it's not as simple as being in one camp or the other probably alludes to that like it's around 15 frames from the 60 fps video but it's highly subjective since you could say it's faster or slower than that depending when you count it since he's raising his arms for a bit initially

Either way it's a decent slap but probably only that, since human reaction time is around 200 ms or so (more less) it could be reactable IF it was expected, however people react slower to things they aren't expecting,
and Chris wasn't expecting it here, so it hit him

In Smash Ultimate online this is still unreactable since there's 11-12 frames human reaction time + 6/7 frames delay (18 offline) then adds at least 5 for the best possible online connection, so the slap hits you before you can defend yourself with a frame 1 shield, it's good here

If you don't like gross stuff don't read any further. So I just finished my walk and I find that one of my shoes is filled with blood, uhhh that's probably not good.

Ok kazuya has true zero to deaths and once the optimize kaz will be cemented as top 5, so seriously from the bottom of my heart I hate sora and steve

Most people in the smash community not only refuse to think, but rely on results to validate their opinions. There's the clip breaking down Leo's decision making to take a stock from Sparg0 and people don't understand what active thinking is and then there's the Lucario clip

Where Bb tman dies at like 30 to a max aura Lucario combo and people are using their MINDS Instead of thinking "wow maybe seeing a clip of a character makes them seem good!" It's just super annoying to see such uninformed takes

ESK is way too safe and flexible to be cool 99% of the time

Warlock Punch is so slow that hitting it is almost always either purely optimal (extremely laggy move/shieldbreak) or the opponent completely turned their brain off; neither is cool

FP either doesn't work or is optimal

Characters like Kazuya, Luigi, DK etc don't lose matchups.

Its impossible for these kinda characters to truly "LOSE" a matchup.

Because they're never ever really actually LOSING. They need 1 hit to win and people be like "dk loses the matchup" lol. HOW. WHERE.

a fairly little known but potentially impactful fact is that attacks classified as "indirect" actually give a much higher advantage on parry (+12 compared to the standard +3) which can allow for a much bigger punish than you would otherwise expect if you know in advance

a general rule of thumb for what the game considers to be "indirect" attacks are if its an explosion (like gunner bar or snake's fsmash) or some kind of shockwave (like late levin down smash, zss down smash, or zap/zapple)

bee @bee_not_ceres · 3m
this rule of thumb doesnt apply to every attack bc nothing is consistent in this game but yeah
i even made a mistake in this vid bc the explosion part of mario's fsmash is in fact not classified as an indirect hitbox in ut though it was in previous games

Some of those landing hitbox aerals are very unsafe on parry (at least Byleth nair's version looks to be indirect if i read ruben's correctly)

The real question is will whoever is running product on let you set your Mii up on the stream setup.

Don't forget that you can just put him on an Amiibo if you have one and tote him around

Assign the mii as the owner of the amiibo

then when you go to make a mii fighter you can offload that owner mii onto the new system

Steve is the only char that I think is inherently truly flawed out of fp2, since he ignores the underlying design of competitive play.

If you're up two stocks on a villager and they go camp in the corner for thirty seconds, no big deal, they're just timing themselves out 1/2

But when Steve runs away and camps while being down two stocks, he's winning. He can literally force an approach while having done absolutely nothing the entire game simply by existing under a platform on the other side of the stage. If u don't approach him he becomes untouchable

The reason Steve is disliked MORE than Lucario, Joker, Warlo, Little Mac, etc?
They all have to actually play the game
Even Hero, a character who can arguably sit in the corner for 20 seconds and buff himself into Goku, will run out of mana and needs to go fight to get more

This exaggeration is so extremely warped that it doesn't even make sense. You're overvaluing the utility of diamond and gold to such a degree that it's better than being up two whole stocks and with the opponent at 100%.

People really do not like camping Steve back and I'dg

Some "geologists" will claim to teach you everything about a volcano: vent geometry, volcanic environment, etc. Yet they themselves are unable to release even 20 megatons of thermal energy in a devastating blast of pyroclastic fury. I find this highly concerning.

Steve gets materials and just gets much more tangible benefits from not approaching than most other characters. So him not approaching while being down can and most likely will make it easier to make a comeback compared to other characters who are just testing patience

what do ya I think about steve not approaching while being down in percent/stocks

vs the rest of the cast not approaching while being in the same situation

1 1 1

Iceman @cemanruz · 37m

Steve gets materials and just gets much more tangible benefits from not approaching than most other characters. So him not approaching while being down can and most likely will make it easier to make a comeback compared to other characters who are just testing patience

1 1 1

KRU coldForce @CFForce3000 · 32m

Question #2 (rephrased): should a character be rewarded for not approaching while down?

1 1 1

Iceman @cemanruz · 22m

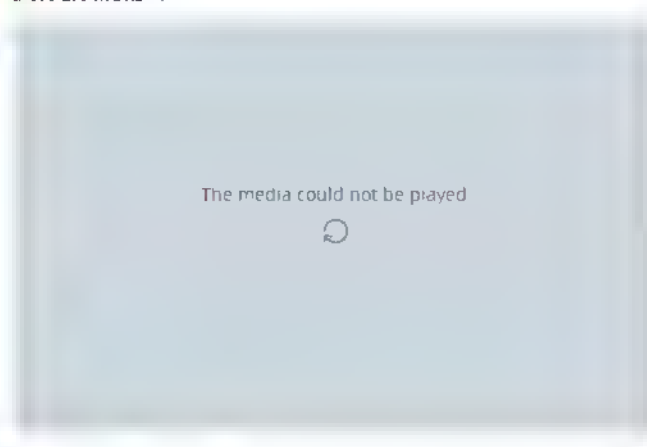

mean Steve isn't exactly invincible when gathering materials so there's risk involved. There's a lot of resource characters in other fighting games that also run away and collect stuff when they're behind. They just have different win conditions from normal characters

The idea behind it is that the needs of each state are different, so you have to give each state some level of representation in the government.

USC | eL Jando @Eljando6 · 29m

I know, but this is inherently antidemocratic in practice as it gives people disproportionate amounts of power to elect senators who have equal legislative power as each other

don't see how giving more power to places that would normally have close to none is ant democratic

those places have more power because they have proportionately less populations with more representation which nullifies the democratic principle of one person one vote as it essentially makes those who live in populous states count less as voters

What's busted about Steve is that he ensures there are no egal, neutral stages. Blocks break the competitive scene's design at a fundamental level, because every single stage becomes steve-favored 3 seconds into the match. No other char causes that (except kirb vs steve)

What's busted about Steve is that he ensures there are no legal, neutral stages. Blocks break the competitive scene's design at a fundamental level, because every single stage becomes Steve-favored 3 seconds into the match. No other char causes that (except Kirby vs Steve)

This is also why Steve is the only bannable char in SSBU
The rest of the d.c., as annoying as they are, play by the normal rules
Only Steve physically reshapes the entire stage to be to his advantage

Which would be fine if everyone else could do the exact same thing

I've grown out of my dis like for Steve. Thing is, both Steve and Kazuya bring a unique touch to competitive Smash. Isn't it kinda cool that they make you approach the game from a different perspective? That's why we should appreciate these characters. It's honestly pretty cool

Further musings

Blocks are why I actually don't take Steve seriously anymore LOL

Playing against Steve (online at least) feels almost exactly like playing against that one guy with his "super funny" custom stage that kills you at zero 3 times because that's its sole purpose.

And when you're in that situation, the only real options are usually to lose and then pick your own super unfair custom stage.

Or to stop playing with them entirely.

Which brings up the further point that Steve may actually be the single most broken char in smash history.

No, no, i don't think it's quite dlc enough yet, i think pyra had the right idea here and that hitting me above her with down aerial should not only be possible but optimal

As a general rule I don't save clips from arenas with non-randoms unless

- A) super good clip
- B) i really need it for the montage (aka armor)
- C) jank worth looking at the replay

None of the ESK clips recently were in one of those categories lol, so none saved okay time again to ask for any songs in smash ult mate that would fucking bang if they played naturally on a competitive stage. Anything from AC/Pokemon/FF/KH/SmashOriginal is barred as those already play naturally on comp stages. Remixes or originals both work.

It's very funny seeing how each smash scene handles discussions on banning characters/mechanics and what not over each new game. From brawl til now it's so interesting seeing how the more time goes on shit stays the same.

Custom stages, stage morph, and stage hazards are illegal

And we have a character who quite literally makes every stage as custom as humanly possible 3 seconds into each match

There are lots of characters that can ztd, but only one that can make a legal stage illegal midmatch

Steve isn't simply threatening/ denying space like the other zoners, or just setting up traps

He is literally altering the stage
Any stage you pick vs Steve goes from mostly neutral to incredibly, inherently imbalanced within 5 seconds of game start as they modify its layout

And you can't jump over cause? Or go through it cause? If the biggest issue there is that he'll throw it then you could either catch it or hit him before he throws it which also reminds me of how slow snake is and that he shouldn't have been able to build a whole wall like that

He's not changing the stage itself so yeah I'd say there's some difference there and also there's the fact that it isn't random so you can see it coming beforehand and react accordingly or prepare yourself compared to a random change that changes the layout for the whole game

So uhhhhh if i can't find some of these last chars online

how ethical would it be to ask for games with those chars specifically given that I have every intention of better falcon punching them multiple times, saving the replays, and then putting them in a montage :)

And to answer the unspoken question: no, that 450+ documented ESKs is NOT me compulsively saving every single ESK

I throw away a lot of them

Cause they're boring

Or I have too many vs that char

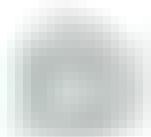

Or it was too laggy to be legitimate

Or my opponent was too incompetent

Aerials are a no-go, so are specials

I have to condition him to smash attack or dash attack, but somehow keep him from pulling the trigger too early and dying unarmored

In a vacuum it's electric. Insanely easily blocks r only as good as they are because of Steve's kit and his need to actually use walls to mine for resources.

You should know by now how much of a Kazuya believer I am but honest to god I think manado arts is the best move in ult in a vacuum and honestly tornado is still potentially better than one or both of them.

massively disappointed and powerful frame 8 up b with a brutal launch angle and full body intangibility starting on f5 that also doubles as the best recovery in the entire history of smash.

probably the most useful thing most characters would get is tech trapping at ledge which is good dont get me wrong but its pretty situational compared to the utility a lot of the better neutral specials provide

- Hypo @WoHJosh · 1h

I think the utility block has is much more than anything any other move can provide. Having a way to consistently get a DJ back is broken. A way to reset ledge invul is broken. Like the move can do so much the possibilities for every character would be insane

- @bee_not_hachi · 59m

so you want me to trade my best midrange poke tool combo starter and shield pressure option that ties the entirety of my character's kit together for the ability stall on ledge longer and get my double jump back (but on y when im in double jump aerial range)

2
- Hypo @WoHJosh · 51m

That is just not what I said. I gave two examples how does that imply that's all you could do. Look how good Steve players are using blocks. They're using it in damn near every interaction in the game. And with the exception of NIL none of it is stuff only Steve could do

- @bee_not_hachi · 48m

im also using thunder damn near every interaction whether its for movement or to stall my fall or to help me get off ledge or to get extra height for a follow up or to bait an option or to start/extend/finish a combo or just to get the damn book like block isnt that special

- @bee_not_hachi · 46m

like its got a lot of uses and thats cool and all but like the actual best parts of block are the three things which are exclusive to steve because of his movement and need to stall for resources everything else is nice sure but its not that insane just really good

- Hypo @WoHJosh · 36m

Perhaps I just over value the ability to just change the stage in general but i genuinely think block is like overall the best neutral B in the game. Like I wish there was a way to lab every character with block because i'm sure every character would have their own setups/tech

- @bee_not_hachi · 33m

sure every character would but the question is does it outweigh the utility their base neutral special provides that would be lost for a lot of characters that arent that reliant on their neutral special like roy its probably yes but for a lot of chars that are its probably no

- Hypo @WoHJosh · 28m

Tbf that's a lot of characters. Basically every rushdown and swordie. Probably every heavy. The spacies. Probably Mario and Luigi. Etc etc. I think it's just a generally more applicable move across than board even if in specific kits it's not as optimal

2
- @bee_not_hachi · 26m

yeah but like monado arts is just the same thing except even more characters would want it maybe like just samus

Brawlhalla actually has that as a mechanic from years ago (every char can do a gravity cancel using their air dash and then do a grounded move)

something I'm confused about:
can you not buffer airdodge out of hitstun/tumble?
i consistently fail to either tech or airdodge when holding shield after getting hit by certain moves and i cannot for the life of me figure out if it's my reaction time or online or the actual game

what if I get hit but don't go into tumble?

can I airdodge out of that?

I faintly remember something about sometimes airdodge doesn't unless you cancel something with jump/aerial/special (?)

Idk how people hit clips that are actually cool. Every time I save a replay of something I think is cool, I go back and look at it and either I just did whatever was optimal and it was just a good play or the other person was just doing something dumb and disadvantage lol

Cause most of them are literally just pressing every button available in their opponent's general direction and because of a) their disjoint b) their frame data and c) their average connection they are rewarded for it

Hate the way he splits the community

KRU coldForce @CForce3000 26m

Actually don't think he's nerfable

I say that cause blocks are unique to him and a core part of his character; no real way to nerf blocks without effectively gutting Steve

We need to either say blocks are fine and stop asking for bans

Or that they're unfair and ban entirely

Blocks alone aren't what make him so good

I would argue that they are the core of what makes him good

Steve with no blocks would have trouble mining, trouble comboing, confirming, getting out of juggles, edgeguarding, etc

The rest of his kit is actually pretty normal for a smash char in terms of damage and power

I think a general damage output nerf allows him to use the unique tool that is blocks without giving him a plethora of 0 to 90 combos. The only problem is that it makes the experience for a casual player who doesn't want to learn the crazy combos less fun.

The damage output isn't the issue imo

We have a LOT of characters who do that much damage: all the fgcs, luigi, mario, brawler, falco, wii fit, aegis, joker, minmin, yoshi, pika, wario etc

Several chars can ztd too;

His offensive options aren't unusual

His defensive ones are

he's clearly got the game sense and rudimentary fundamentals to swap between chars and make the most out of, from what I've seen, mostly practicing on quickplay and streaming

Blocks alone aren't what make him so good

2 27

KRU coldForce @CForce3000 · 14h

I would argue that they are the core of what makes him good

Steve with no blocks would have trouble mining, trouble comboing, confirming, getting out of juggles, edgeguarding, etc

The rest of his kit is actually pretty normal for a smash char in terms of damage and power

1 1

shaya @ShayaJP · 9h

Normal in terms of damage and power?

Because Samus fsmash kills at 50% and is safe on block right?

Because Monkey Flip kills at 80-90% near the ledge right? And also stuns people for several seconds

Because Mario's damage per hit is also in the 5-10% range, but he has a sword

1 1

KRU coldForce

@CForce3000

normal for a high dlc char lol

steve without blocks is, to be fair, still obnoxious

but like,

a relatively normal level of obnoxious

like roy/terry/lucina/joker/palu exist in this game too and they're prob about as stupid as steve would be if steve had no blocks

imo

Consider steve without blocks

- No walls

That's a MUCH less scary character

Compare that to steve with slightly nerfed utilt LOL

At this point I wouldn't mind a Steve ban that much

He doesn't have a real reason to be banned but we can all agree that Steve getting nerfed is the end goal and banning him could maybe get Nintendo to do something?

Hate the way he splits the community

Actually don't think he's nerfable

I say that cause blocks are unique to him and a core part of his character, no real way to nerf blocks without effectively gutting Steve

We need to either say blocks are fine and stop asking for bans

Or that they're unfair and ban entirely

I think honestly maybe nerfing up tilt is where I'd start it's 1, Mashable and leads into combos and kill moves, make it slower or laggy than Imo Steve's less obnoxious

KRU coldForce @CForce3000 · Aug 16

I mean sure

but it's only one of like 3-4 very good Steve combo moves and wouldn't do anything else about block related stuff and like it doesn't even feel particularly concerning in a vacuum as an util.

Mashing until your controller breaks is optimal there only two characters in the whole roster that I haven't ESK'd recently

Squirtle (cause PT doesn't LEAVE HIM OUT LONG ENOUGH)

and Villager (cause ironically I only see Isabelle, seriously, do all the vill y players use Sora now or something??)

Legally questionable, would not recommend.

Now on the other hand, were someone to accidentally lose a sack of controllers in the venue and forget to claim them until hours later, i mean, it's an accident.

Just like the 15 hundred misinputs over the past 12 hours.

What is the core reason that you play your main SSBU char(s)?

Explanation in order

- 1) char movement & moves are enjoyable for you above all else
- 2) few losing matchups, beats problem chars, optimal
- 3) people think i'm cool/funnyhype for playing these chars
- 4) loyalist forever

@notdreamland why is hoa in theirs LOL that category is very competitive yoshi's is the fastest and goes through plats bowser's break shields the easiest but brawlers is by far the strongest knockback and most consistent spike

 dreamlamb!
drea' @notdreamland

moves in their archetype that r the best (imo, idrc to talk abt

@notdreamland i swear every other brawler lives in a different universe LOL rising hit combos into falling hit, has always combined into falling hit – unless the brawler player messes it up and doesn't actually land the rising hit but insted the intermediate hits

afalk

 dreamlamb!
drea' @notdreamland

@CForce3000 if it broke full shield and combo'd one hit into the other itd be brawler free

coldFr @CForce3000

@notdreamland also wdym no fear, it breaks full shields, has broken full shields since like 2021; even if it doesn't break full shields it very easily shield pokes and can kill from the shield poke

 dreamlamb!
drea' @notdreamland

@CForce3000 theres like almost no fear to just shielding it. good spikes are important and all but like. if u miss u die. yoshis and bowsers have a great on stage case. plus the rising hit doesnt even combo into the falling hit. i dont get what ur saying

Fri May 10 2024 08:55:42 GMT+0000 (Coordinated Universal Time)

 coldForce
coldFr @CForce3000

@notdreamland shield breaking is bonus for hoa, its use case is just killing people outright. it's frame 8; that's fast enough to drop shield swordies for tilting my shield/smash attacking my shield, and rising hit has SAK range

 dreamlamb!
drea' @notdreamland

@CForce3000 suicide spikes have their place but consistent shield breaking is much more important with these sorts of moves

 dreamlamb!
dreamlamb! @notdreamland

@CForce3000 ok im half mistaken, grounded hit combos into

 dreamlamb!
drea' @notdreamland

@CForce3000 if you can get it on the ground it does a lot of damage and knockback, but trying to combo into it doesnt work . that along with the lack of sh shield break potential does put it down below bowsers and yoshis imo

@notdreamland but it's not the hitstun's fault, it's the fault of hitbox/hurtbox/brawler player moving the angle of HoA...so as far as I'm concerned, missing HoA is always a skill issue on my part lol

 coldForce
coldF @CForce3000

@notdreamland that's a fair point on the other versions; and tbf, hoa can miss at any time because it feels like it any slim/weird hurtbox char has a high chance to just get out (joker, bane of my existence)

RT @sammigallivants: F Bella Hadid.

Rescued Hostage "We were beaten almost every day. Our hands and feet were bound for two straight months. We were starved. They constantly threatened to kill me. I didn't see sunlight for 8 months. On my 22nd birthday, they made a cake and dangled it in my face but wouldn't let me eat it. Then after they took it away they made me film a propaganda video begging for my life."

Bella Hadid to her 61 million Instagram followers (4x the number of Jews that exist throughout the entire world): "Hey, see everyone, Hamas are the good guys! They made a hostage a birthday cake!"

Y'all need to be really careful about who the fuck you're consuming "information" from. Especially when it comes to celebrities and influencers. But I'm sure most of you are already too lost to listen or care.

RT @CAKEMUSIC: Ahem.

"This was not a debate. It was Trump using a technique that actually has a formal name, the Gish gallop, although I suspect he comes by it naturally. It's a rhetorical technique in which someone throws out a fast string of lies, non-sequiturs, and specious arguments, so many that it is impossible to fact-check or rebut them in the amount of time it took to say them. Trying to figure out how to respond makes the opponent look confused, because they don't know where to start grappling with the flood that has just hit them.

It is a form of gaslighting, and it is especially effective on someone with a stutter, as Biden has. It is similar to what Trump did to Biden during a debate in 2020. In that case, though, the lack of muting on the mics left Biden simply saying: "Will you shut up, man?" a comment that resonated with the audience. Giving Biden the enforced space to answer by killing the mic of the person not speaking tonight actually made the technique more effective."

When Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson accepted the reality that they could not effectively govern the nation if they sought re-election to the White House, both men took the moral high ground and decided against running for a new term as president. President Obama is facing a similar reality—and he must reach the same conclusion.

He should abandon his candidacy for re-election

The lack of a real western response to the Okhmatdyt Hospital atrocity has already emboldened Russia to begin telegraphing its intentions to stage a repeat of the Nova Kakhovka disaster.

This must be stopped.

Enough talk of Russia's "red lines." Where are ours?

Project 2025 will get rid of the FDIC so your bank accounts are no longer insured, while also deregulating banks so they can take risks that make them more likely to fail. How do you feel about the safety of your life savings being up to banks?

On one hand Vance is the worst possible choice electorally speaking, on the other hand he's the choice if you really are committed to throwing Ukraine to the wolves, giving up on NATO, and launching large-scale authoritarian domestic crackdowns.

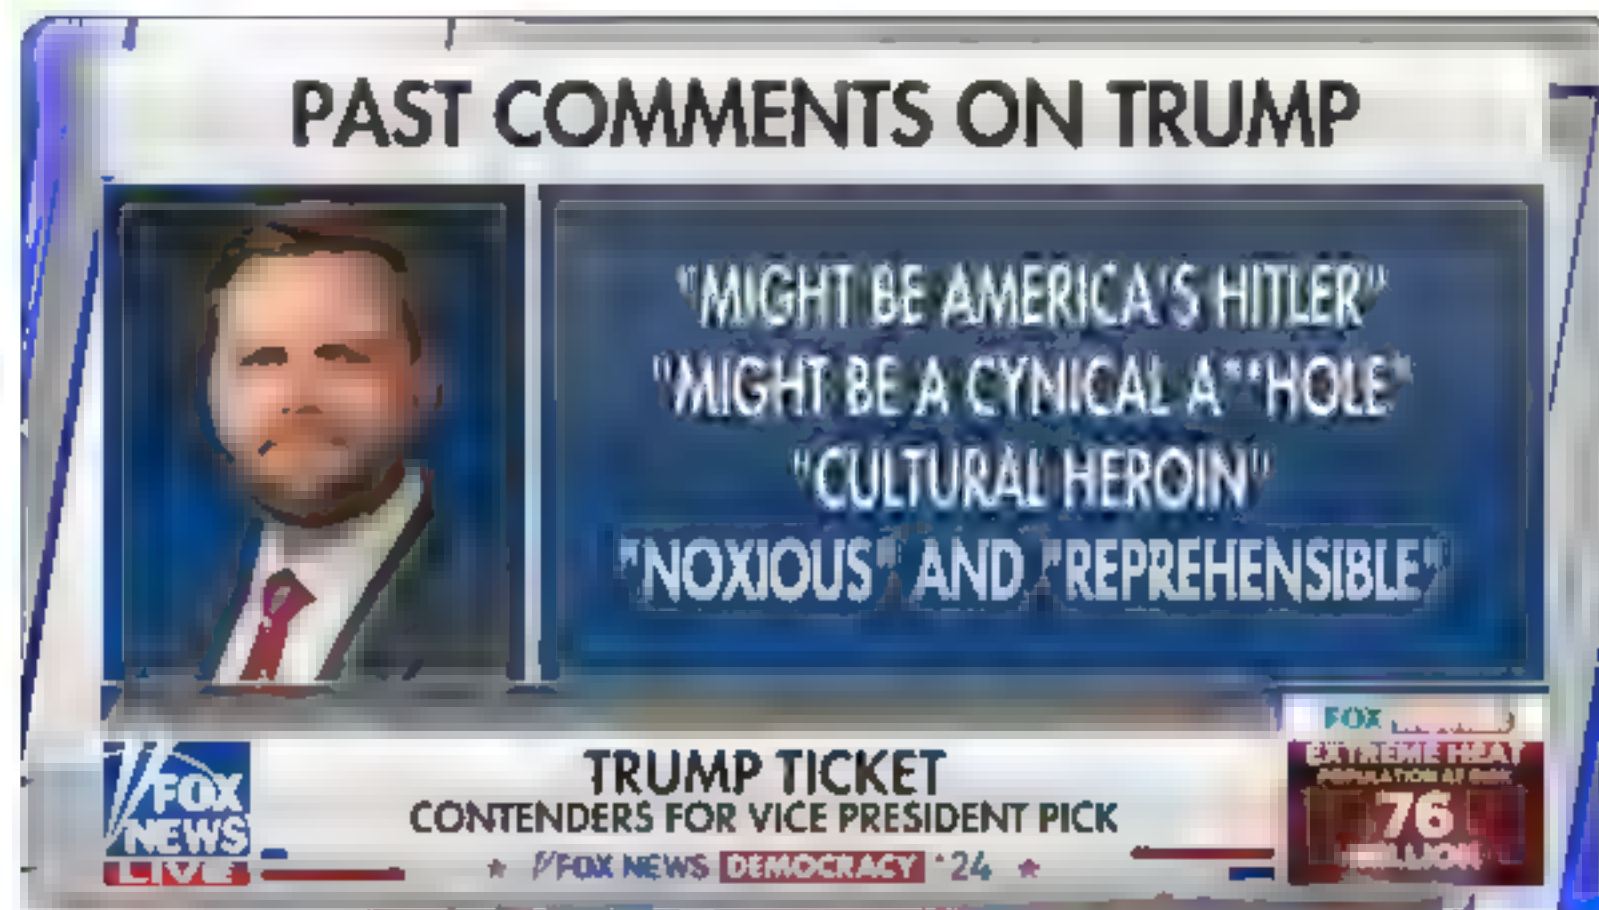

So I guess it makes sense.

The MAGA Plan to End Free Weather Reports

Project 2025 would all but dissolve the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

By Zoë Schlanger

JULY 16, 2024, 8:31 AM ET

SHARE  SAVE

In the United States, as in most other countries, weather forecasts are a freely accessible government amenity. The National Weather Service issues alerts and predictions, warning of hurricanes and excessive heat and rainfall, all at the total cost to American taxpayers of roughly $4 per person per year. Anyone with a TV, smartphone, radio, or newspaper can know what tomorrow's weather will look like, whether a hurricane is heading toward their town, or if a drought has been forecast for the next season. Even if they get that news from a privately owned app or TV station, much of the underlying weather data are courtesy of meteorologists working for the federal government.

They also killed Olena's 5 dogs, just for the fun of it.

Following our report, they Army reversed course and awarded them the honor. <https://t.co/RHxAD7J6TU>

RT @arash_tehran: .@FukuyamaFrancis wrote these lines two years ago and I couldn't agree more Liberal democracy will not make a comeback unless people are willing to struggle on its behalf. The problem is that many who grow up living in peaceful, prosperous liberal democracies begin to take their form of government for granted. Because they have never experienced an actual tyranny, they imagine that the democratically elected governments under which they live are themselves evil dictatorships conniving to take away their rights, whether that is the European Union or the administration in Washington. But reality has intervened. The Russian invasion of Ukraine constitutes a real dictatorship trying to crush a genuinely free society with rockets and tanks, and may serve to remind the current generation of what is at stake. By resisting Russian imperialism, the Ukrainians are demonstrating the grievous weaknesses that exist at the core of an apparently strong state. They understand the true value of freedom, and are fighting a larger battle on our behalf, a battle that all of us need to join.

The replies to this are depressing. Harris is trying to win a general election and appeal to center-right voters who dislike Trump -- a constituency that helped Biden in 2020. It would be nice if the circular firing squad could cool it for 30 days.

Also, let's be clear what's happening here: this is cash being exchanged for votes, and then the vote purchaser advertising how you, too, can get paid for your vote.

RT @realbiscuitspaw: Treasonous bastard

Can we get a correction here, folks?
The "covid tests" Trump took from scarce US supplies to send to Putin were not the two-to-a-box OTC kits you can get at CVS today. What Trump sent were the scarce Abbott Labs Covid Testing Machines (plural), not cardboard boxed kits; These 2020
Abbott machines were Emergency Authorization early approved state-of-the-art 6.6 pound molecular point-of-care testing machines the size of a toaster. Hospitals and clinics desperately needed these rapid (5 minute) test machines to determine who was or wasn't infected to stop the spread. Americans likely died because they were denied access to US machines that Trump was stealing from US supplies to send to his KGB handler.

A proper 1/6-type House investigative commission would root out the filthy secrets of the creepy billionaires' Court-capture operation. I believe the evidence would be devastating. This isn't conservatism; this is capture — with loads of dark money.

Dear BELLIS, RACHAEL E

The Dauphin County Board of Elections received a challenge to your absentee ballot you applied for in the November 5, 2024 General Election. The challenge argues that a provision of the Pennsylvania Election Code takes precedence over the federal Uniformed and Overseas Citizens Absentee Voting Act (UOCAVA), which requires states and counties to permit U.S. citizens who move overseas to vote by absentee ballot for federal offices based on their last U.S. residential address.

The full text of the challenge that was filed appears below this email.

RT @joabaldwin: Share this widely. Make the move now, and do not let your friends linger here any longer.

TIPS: MOVING FROM XITTER TO BSKY

Before you start following people, fill out your profile: Bio, PFP, banner, and post at least 5 to 10 things. Just reuse your top 10 banger tweets—recycling is encouraged. This way when people see you followed them and they check your profile, they'll know you aren't a bot. Well, I see what you are about, and might follow back.

Turn off NSFW filters in Settings > Moderation > Content Filters (🔒) and Settings > Moderation > Advanced > Bluesky Moderation Service.

Find your friends from the hel site using SkyFollowerBridge.com. Not perfect, but it will find the majority of the people you were following.

Follow a few feeds related to your interests. Some generic ones I'd recommend:
- Catch Up: kinda like a "best posts of the week."
- Only Posts: to see no quotes/reposts, only new posts from those you follow.
- FollowersLike: to discover random things your followers recently liked.

Turn on "Show Posts From My Feeds" in Settings > Following Feed Preferences. This will sprinkle random posts from your feeds into your main Home feed.

Block often. Don't interact with trolls, don't quote/dunk/comment nothing. Let them rot in silence, take away their oxygen and they'll asphyxiate. This is the Bsky way.

Fuck content scrapers. Do not let that trash overwhelm this site; do not share their stolen content. You can block them all with two clicks by going to joabaldwin.com/scrapers and on the top-right clicking on Subscribe > Block Accounts (I know, "Subscribe" is an odd thing to name it, but that's how block lists work here).

Use alt text to make images accessible. Helps for translations, readability, findability and users with slow internet. Turn on Settings > Accessibility > Require alt text before posting.

Likes on reposts do not trigger notifications. If you only repost stuff, it might look super quiet even if people are liking what you repost. Mix in more regular posts or quotes.

It takes time to rebuild, and that's fine, but the best time to do it is right now. Use your last few tweets to tell everyone to move. Twitter is a hazy /A /bot/crypto cesspit and will only get worse. Do not support the platform that wants to destroy you. If you must post for a bit longer, post cropped images telling people where to find the uncropped ones until your friends make the move.

Mr. Musk, often with his 4-year-old son X on his lap, has spent most of the last week at Mar-a-Lago, joining not just interviews but almost every meeting and many meals that Mr. Trump has had. He briefly shuttled back to Austin, Texas, where he has a $35 million compound, before returning on Friday, where he ate in Mar-a-Lago's dining room and on its patio, roamed the gift shop and spent time on the golf course — all alongside the president-elect.

"I'm happy to be the first buddy!" he replied to a social-media follower this weekend.

I realize that we are occasionally given to hyperbole about the untoward nature of politicians, but let me be clear: Matt Gaetz is a sex trafficking drug addicted piece of shit. He is abhorrent. His eyes are permanently rimmed with the red rings of chemical boosters. In person, he smells like overexposed Axe Body Spray and stale Astroglide. The fact that he boasted on the floor to multiple colleagues in the House of Representatives of his methods of crushing Viagra and high test Red Bull to maintain his erection through his orgiastic evenings is perhaps the least offensive of his many crimes against womanhood and Christian faith. The man has less principles than your average fentanyl addicted hobo. He likes them underage and he's not ashamed about it. Matt Gaetz isn't just your average extreme Florida MAGA Man, he's a hypocritical ass with the worst Botox money can buy, pursuing an ever-thinner nose and higher cheekbones at every opportunity like a Real Housewife gone mad for fillers.
